How to get a medical marijuana card in Ohio

Six steps, from checking you qualify to buying at a licensed dispensary.

1

Check you qualify

Be 18 or older, an Ohio resident, and have one of Ohio's 21 qualifying conditions.

2

Get ready

Have a photo ID, a list of your medicines, and any records about your condition.

3

See an Ohio physician

In person or by video. They review your history, check at least 12 months of OARRS and explain risks and benefits.

4

Get your recommendation

If you qualify, the physician submits your registration to the Ohio registry.

5

Activate by email

Click the state's activation link, check your details and accept the legal statement.

6

Buy at a dispensary

Bring your registry card and your photo ID to any licensed Ohio dispensary.

- Registration lasts 1 year
- Ohio charges no state registration fee
- The physician decides whether you qualify

Medical records for your Ohio card visit

Records aren't always required, but they let your physician confirm a diagnosis.

What to bring

- A visit note, letter or report that names your diagnosis
- Test or imaging results related to your condition
- A list of treatments you've tried and current medicines
- Photos or PDFs from your patient portal are fine

How to get copies

- Ask your doctor's office or use its patient portal
- You have a right to copies of your records
- They can charge reasonable copying or mailing costs
- They can't refuse because you owe a bill

No records?

- You can still be evaluated
- Your physician takes your history and examines you
- They may ask for records before deciding

Activating and renewing your Ohio registration

What happens in the Ohio Medical Marijuana Registry after your visit.

1

Physician submits

After your visit, your physician submits your registration to the state registry.

2

Watch your email

The registry emails an activation link to the address you gave your physician.

3

Accept and confirm

Click the link, review your details and accept the legal statement.

4

Download your card

Your registry card is ready in your profile. Show it with a photo ID.

5

Valid for one year

The state sends a notice 45 days before your registration expires.

6

Renew each year

Get a new recommendation, then click Renew Card in the registry, up to 30 days early.

- Registry information that identifies you is confidential
- Wrong details? Contact the physician who submitted them

Ohio medical card vs adult-use

What a medical card changes, and what stays the same.

	Medical card	Adult-use (no card)
Who can buy	Registered patients 18 and older	Adults 21 and older with a photo ID
Ohio adult-use tax	Not charged on medical marijuana	10% adult-use tax
How much you can have	Up to a 90-day supply	2.5 oz of plant material and 15 g of extract
Ohio patient protections	Custody, medical care, housing applications and public benefits	Not covered
Smoking or vaping in public	Not allowed	Not allowed
Impaired driving	Illegal	Illegal
Employer drug-free policies	Can still apply	Can still apply

☐ Shaded rows are the same either way

What an Ohio medical card means for you

Where Ohio law protects registered patients, and where it doesn't.

Firearms

Unsettled

Federal law changed in 2026 and is still settling. Talk to a firearms lawyer first.

Your job

Not protected

Employers can keep drug-free and zero-tolerance policies and act on marijuana use.

Driving

Limits apply

Impaired driving is illegal. Being a patient alone isn't a reason for a sobriety test.

Housing

Protected

A landlord can't reject you mainly for being a patient. A lease can still ban smoking, vaping and growing.

Custody, care and benefits

Protected

Lawful use can't be the main reason for a custody decision, denied care or lost benefits (unemployment rules differ).

Your privacy

Confidential

Registry information that identifies you is not a public record.

NEXT STEPS

Ready to see if you qualify?

Marijuana Card OH connects Ohio adults with Ohio-licensed physicians who hold a Certificate to Recommend, by video from home. It's $149 for a new evaluation and $129 to renew, with a full refund if your physician finds you don't qualify.
